June 7, 2016 Naples, Maine — Moose Landing Marina, the largest on-water facility in the Lakes Region area, has been appointed as the dealer for Ranger Tugs in Maine. Built for strength and durability, Ranger Tugs offer maneuverability and seaworthiness in a well-equipped design.

Built in the U.S. at the company's factories in Kent and Monroe, Washington, Ranger Tugs offer eight models, ranging in length from 21 to 31 feet. The solid construction of these pocket trawlers is optimized to provide fuel efficiency at an affordable price. They come standard with a full suite of Garmin electronic controls and are equipped with a Volvo diesel engine, hydraulic steering, and bow and stern thrusters for ease of operation. All models are trailerable, making them ideal for exploring the many lakes and coastal regions of Maine.

"We are excited to be able to offer these truly unique boats to our customers," said Steve Arnold, owner of Moose Landing Marina. "Ranger Tugs are a great vessel to explore Maine waterways. In fact, Will Monson, our General Sales Manager at Moose Landing Marina is so passionate about Ranger Tugs that he owns one himself," noted Arnold. "As the state's only dealer of Ranger Tugs, we look forward to increasing awareness of these versatile boats and growing their presence in Maine."

All Ranger Tugs come turnkey with standard features and equipment intended to make the boat easy to handle and the owner's experience comfortable and hassle-free when underway. Moose Landing Marina will work with buyers on additional equipment options so their Ranger Tug is built to fit their specific cruising needs and styles.

Ranger Tugs will be available to view and board by mid-June. Stop in and see why Ranger Tugs makes a difference in the industry and makes a perfect fit with Moose Landing Marina.
